

-- HVHS President Available to Address Groups --

October 17, 2006 Pomona, NY: In an effort to raise awareness about animal welfare here in Rockland County, the Hudson Valley Humane Society's president, Raymond Mundy, is making himself available to address groups. Whether you belong to a school, rotary, corporation, nonprofit, or simply are an interested group of citizens, Mr. Mundy will gladly present the topic of animal welfare (or an animal topic of your choice) and address your questions. No fee is required. So go ahead and plan a date for your group to sit, stay and speak!

For further information, please contact Ann Marie Gaudio at 845-942-1382.
